The Challenge

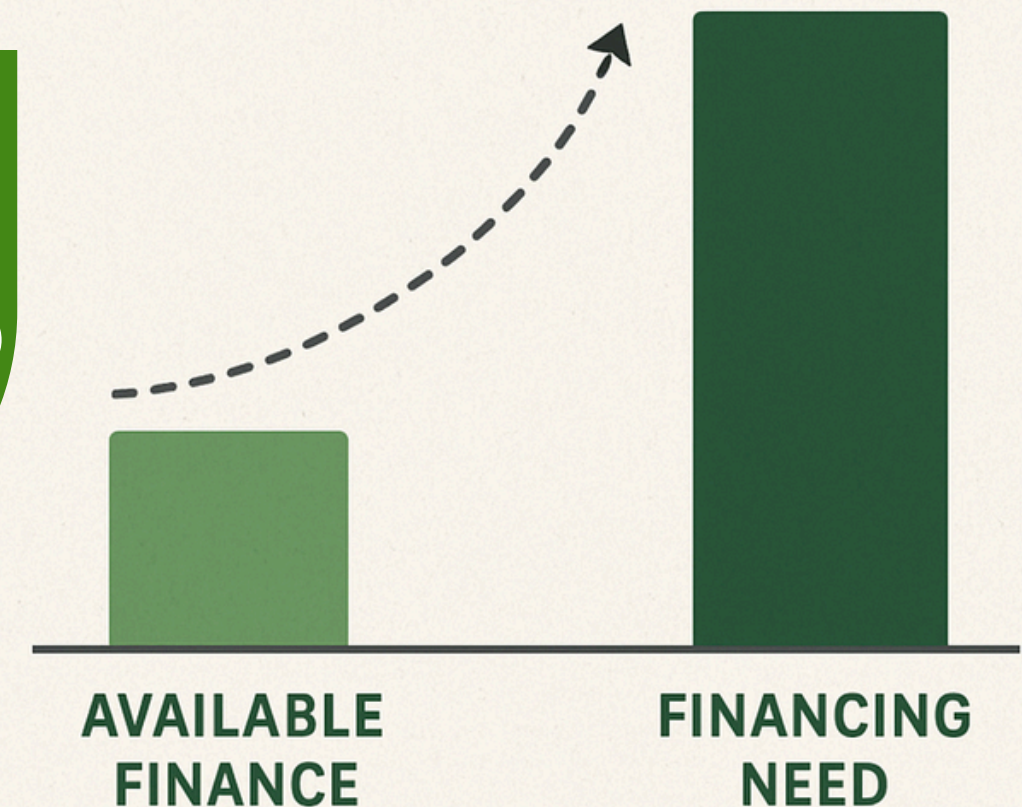

Why Climate Finance Matters

- Economies still dependent on unsustainable industries
- Eco-enterprises struggle to access finance to scale
- Vulnerable communities risk being left behind without inclusive finance

Across multiple leading reports (CPI, UNFCCC, IEA), the consensus is that only about 30% of the needed climate finance is currently available, resulting in a ~70% global financing gap for eco-projects and green transition efforts.

Vision & Call to Action

Beyond money, climate finance is about enabling solutions, empowering entrepreneurship, and building green economies.

I urge all stakeholders here today to:

- Invest in innovative climate finance platforms.
- Support eco-enterprises and green trade.
- Ensure that climate action is inclusive, just, and economically transformative.
- With the right financial tools, we can turn climate challenges into opportunities for all.
